

DIVORCE IS DIFFICULT

Do I Need Help?

If you have no children, few assets and relatively comparable income then a DIY divorce is possible, though there are challenges. DIY divorces often end up back in court with long-term expenses that could have been avoided.

Can I Use a Mediator?

Our mediation process is unique. It lets individuals negotiate their own settlement and potential tax and financial consequences post divorce. It works well for more amicable divorces where couples want to do it themselves but need help navigating the more difficult topics.

Do I Need a Lawyer?

Attorney representation becomes necessary in highly contentious divorce scenarios, or when couples benefit from legal advice as they utilize non-attorney options.

Will Life Ever Be Normal Again?

It can be, yes! The entire focus of our team, process, tools and events is to help you find your way back to a happier, healthier and more successful life!

Where Do I Start?

By understanding the process. From our 70+ years of experience, knowing what decisions you will face, the information you need to make the right long term decisions for you, and if/when to involve trustworthy experts is the single greatest change agent in your divorce process. Contact us today for a completely confidential and completely free consultation.

DIVORCE PROCESS

The process of divorce is difficult and emotions can run high. Our goal is to be there with you through the entire process whether you need help with only one step or the entire process. Contact us today and we can pair you with the appropriate expert based on your needs.

THERE IS ANOTHER WAY

Our monthly seminar allows you to become equipped with the tools you need, when you need them by having your questions answered in person. It is on the second Saturday of each month and is open to everyone.
